

Metrics for the machine learning components

These are measured while training and tuning via cross-validation and then once only with the test set.

Goal is to generalize well while avoiding overfitting.

